

Phone Workers Near Agreement

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Representatives of the Federation of Telephone Workers and Pennsylvania agreed Wednesday night to a 24-hour extension of contract with the Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania.

A vociferously 75 workers in the Stroudsburg Bell District are involved in the dispute.

Talks were recessed at 11 p.m. The two parties were described by mediators as in agreement, lacking only the exact working of the new contract.

A company spokesman said "progress was being made but there was not enough time left to cover the major points."

Delaware Backs Bible Reading

DOVER, Del. (AP)—Atty. Gen. David Buckson ruled Wednesday that Bible-reading and the recital of the Lord's Prayer will continue in Delaware's public schools.

He took the position that the decision of the U. S. Supreme Court last June 17 banning religious rituals in public schools applied only to Pennsylvania, Maryland and Florida, the states involved in the litigation on which the finding was based.

He said a statute requiring public schools to open classes daily with the reading of scriptural passages and with recitation of the Lord's Prayer, "is still the law of Delaware."

Railroad Dispute 'Total Deadlock'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The railroad work rules dispute remained in a total deadlock Wednesday with no reported progress toward heading off a nationwide rail strike Aug. 29 either through legislation or negotiations.

There was no announced contact between the carriers and five on-train unions. Their talks Tuesday were proclaimed by the railroads to be in a "positive stalemate" on the key firemen's issue with no hope of achieving a negotiated agreement.

Senate Okays Service Corps

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's proposal for a National Service Corps squeaked through the Senate 47-44 Wednesday after it was put on a two-year trial basis with sharply curtailed size and spending limits.

Democratic leaders persuaded several Democratic senators to cast key votes and give the measure the margin.

Stroudsburg Firm Wins Bid

HARRISBURG (AP)—The state Highways Department awarded almost $6 million in contracts Wednesday for road and bridge work in these counties:

Northampton—U.S. 611, Forks, Lower Mt. Bethel townships, and Easton, resurfaced, reconstructed shoulders, 6.5 miles between Easton and Bangor, Pocono Paving Materials, Inc., Stroudsburg, Pa., $172,382.

Man Drowns Near Mt. Bethel

MT. BETHEL, Pa. (AP)—Charles D. Tenyson, 21, of Louisville, Ga., a dishwasher at Camp Walpole, drowned Wednesday after his canoe overturned in the private lake of the children's camp in this Northampton County community.

Mickey Cohen Attacked In Jail

ATLANTA (AP)—Mickey Cohen, one-time Los Angeles gambler, was "vaguely battered on the head with an iron pipe in the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary Wednesday by a fellow inmate."

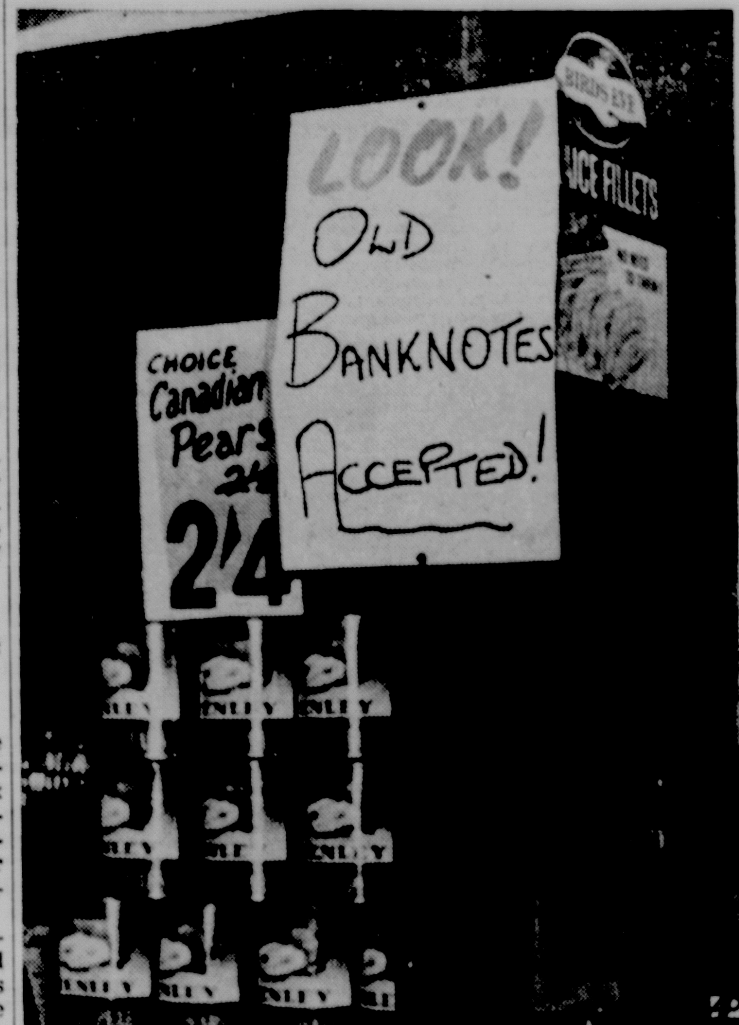

Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—Wall Street's mood changed Wednesday from gloom over a stalemate in the railway labor dispute to cheer because of progress in tax-cut legislation and the result was another stock market gain. Trading was fairly active.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 3.82 to 714.95. Volume remained at a lively 4.42 million shares compared with Tuesday's 4.45 million.

Terrible Twins

LONDON (AP)—Scotland Yard called in the "Terrible Twins" Wednesday to help solve modern history's biggest cash robbery. Into the hunt for the great train robbery gang and their loot of more than $7 million The Yard put two of its highest ranking officers: Detective Chief Supt. Tom Butler and Detective Chief Inspector Peter Vibart.

Butler, until recently second in command of the flying squad in a 30-year-old bachelor, Vibart, one of the original officers of the Criminal Intelligence Bureau, is a quiet, craggy man of 48.

When they served together on the flying squad they were looked upon as the scourge of the underworld. Crooks dubbed them the "Terrible Twins."

Their assignment to the train case came as the Yard tried to cope with almost more leads than it could handle. Detectives were working 16 to 18 hours a day.

Many of the new and promising leads came with the discovery Tuesday of the crooks' hideout on an isolated farmhouse only 18 miles from the scene of last Thursday's holdup. The crooks had slipped out.

For the first time since the robbery, senior officers at Scotland Yard had an air of quiet confidence. The feeling was in the air that they were on the brink of making arrests.

mission, said the treaty will permit a wide range of nuclear weapons to be developed and "we will continue vigorously" this "active underground testing program."

He assured a joint session of the Senate Foreign Relations, Armed Services and Atomic committees that the pact would not prevent U.S. development of an antimissile warhead—a fear expressed by several senators.

—A statement to Senate leaders by 35 of the 56 living American Nobel Prize winners urged ratification "as a concrete expression of our country's desire for peace."

In carefully measured words, Taylor, chairman of the joint chiefs, explained reservations put aside by the nation's top military leaders. He defined their main concern in these words:

"Fear of a euphoria (sense of well being) in the West which will eventually reduce our vigilance and the willingness of our country and of our allies to expend continued effort of our collective security."

On the other side of the argument, it was disclosed that Dr. Edward Teller told senators two days ago the proposed ban would hamper U.S. military preparedness in many ways with potentially "highly dangerous . . . consequences."

As Taylor testified secretly before the Senate Armed Services Preparedness subcommittee, there was this added support for Senate ratification of the pact to ban all nuclear tests except those underground:

Liquor Sales Drop $1 Million Under New Tax

HARRISBURG (AP)—Liquor sales in Pennsylvania have dropped $1 million a month since the state boosted its liquor tax, the State Liquor Board reported Wednesday.

Liquor board figures showed June sales—the first month after the tax boost became effective—had dropped to $19,810,117 or $950,590 below the same month of 1962. July figures showed sales of $18,029,663 compared to $19,112,208 in July of 1962.

The liquor board is reluctant to pinpoint the direct cause of the sales drop. But they indicate that the higher tax may be driving business to neighboring states or causing people to buy less liquor.

The 1963 legislature boosted the old 10 per cent tax to 15 per cent to provide additional revenue to balance Gov. Scranton's budget.

Labor Picks COPE Chief At Unity

UNITY HOUSE, Pa. (AP)—The AFL-CIO Wednesday picked a one-time high school history teacher to direct its Committee on Political Education (COPE).

He is Alexander E. Barkan, 54, of Bethesda, Md., the acting director since the death last March of James M. McDevitt.

"Our policy is non-partisan. We will support a liberal Republican and oppose a reactionary Democrat wherever we find them."

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, announced the appointment after a two-hour meeting of COPE's administrative committee, held in conjunction with the AFL-CIO executive council session here.

Barkan, a registered Democrat like his predecessor, was asked whether his plans were to get President Kennedy re-elected next year.

"That'll have to wait for endorsement action by the AFL-CIO," he said.

The AFL-CIO endorsed Kennedy in 1960 and concentrated a registration and get-out-the-vote campaign in 14 states, 12 of which Kennedy carried. It is almost certain the AFL-CIO will endorse Kennedy again.

HARRISBURG (AP)—Gov. Scranton told Pennsylvanians Wednesday they enjoy a combined state-local tax advantage over residents of four other major industrial states.

"California, New York, Michigan and Illinois all take a higher bite out of the pockets of persons in those states than we do in Pennsylvania," the Governor said at his weekly news conference.

Scranton said he was prompted to make the comparison because of criticism over the 1 per cent increase in the state sales tax to 5 per cent and what he called a general lack of knowledge among the public that the sales tax revenue goes entirely for education.

Lumping state and local taxes together, the Governor said Pennsylvania has the lowest per capita tax collection—$223.36 a year—than the other four states. He also said the tax collections per $1,000 of personal income were lowest at $4.32.

Using figures compiled through telephone calls to the four states, Scranton said New York has the highest per capita tax total, $374.71, and the top amount per $1,000 of personal income, $127.89.

Discussing the total financial picture of the Commonwealth, the Governor said he was tremendously encouraged by a reported economic upsurge in the state and the nation generally.

He indicated, but would not predict, that no additional revenue would be needed next year, saying:

"As far as the future is concerned, nobody can predict what will happen, but if you get an increase in the economic situation, this will help us tremendously."

The Governor said that the rate of unemployment in Pennsylvania has been declining "extraordinarily" as other economic conditions have improved.

In other news conference developments:

Liquor taxes—the Governor said there have been "relatively few" complaints about the boost in the state's liquor tax from 10 per cent to 15 per cent. Some reports have indicated that state revenue from that source has been reduced an estimated million dollars a month.

Vacation—the Governor said he is taking a brief vacation that will include a trip to the Adirondack Mountains in New York State for a visit with his sons who are in camp there.

Good Morning!

No man goes before his time, unless the boss leaves early.

HAND IN HAND — President Kennedy holds the hand of his wife, Jacqueline, as he escorts her from Otis Air Force Base Hospital in Massachusetts one week after her giving premature birth to a baby son, Patrick, who died two days later. (AP Wirephoto)

Mrs. Kennedy Leaves Hospital

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—Hand in hand President and Mrs. Kennedy left the hospital Wednesday where their third child was born just a week ago.

The chief executive took the First Lady by helicopter from Otis Air Force Base to their summer home on Squaw Island, where Mrs. Kennedy will continue her convalescence from the emergency birth.

Her doctor relayed word that she has made "a very satisfactory recovery" but ordered her to "curtail all of her activities and not undertake an official schedule until after the first of the year."

Patrick Bouvier Kennedy was born to her 5½ weeks prematurely and he died less than two days later.

Something of strain and sorrow and tragedy showed on the faces of the President and Mrs. Kennedy.

"Careful," the President said when his wife looked down at him hesitantly at two stone steps outside the doorway of the military hospital at Otis.

She, in a simple sleeveless dress of pink, in a dusky blue suit, clutched hands all the way down the steps, out the walk, and up to a limousine. Kennedy helped his wife inside.

A trip of a few minutes and a few miles brought the Kennedys to Squaw Island, where their helicopter landed safely.

There they have a rambling, gray shingle house overlooking Nantucket Sound, with a lease until Sept. 15. And there, White House officials said, Mrs. Kennedy probably will remain for the next month.

The President expects to be commuting on weekends to one place or the other from Washington.

Tax Break For Plant Expansion

HARRISBURG (AP)—Gov. Scranton Wednesday signed into law a plan that will allow Pennsylvania industry to write off millions of dollars in new plant investment in the years ahead.

Other new laws will:

—Permit the governor, when the legislature is not in session to transfer general government funds to special accounts for disaster relief.

—Spell out that real estate title include the air space above property.

—Provide for automatic projection in auto insurance policies against damages inflicted by insured motorists, unless specifically rejected by the insured.

—Give credit to prisoners for time spent in custody prior to conviction.

—Double the penalties for furnishing to persons under 18 years any literature or publications which are obscene or advocate the use of narcotics.

—Increase the period of time from one to two years during which a third class county employee may be reinstated in the county retirement system.

—Increase the compensation of school directors attending a convention for the election of a county superintendent from $10 to $12.

—Permit banks and trust companies to create collective investment funds.

—Require banks to annually report their earnings and publish a yearly earnings abstract.

—Allow the Welfare Department to purchase day care service for dependent or neglected children.

—Allow county commissioners to appropriate funds to non profit corporations for restoring or preserving historical sites within the county.

—Extend to June 30, 1965 the right of the state insurance commissioner to tax insurance companies to defray expenses of the Committee on Valuation of Securities of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners.

—Permit savings banks formed by special charter to become members of a federal home loan bank.

—Allow savings banks to create one or more collective investment funds to invest money received as managing agents.

—Permit savings banks to act as trustees of funds or contributions in conformance with requirements of the federal Self-employed Individual Tax Retirement Act.

—Allow the use of facsimile seals and signatures on certificates of stock of insurance companies.

—Authorize the creation of a six-member committee to rule on destruction of official papers and records in third to eighth class counties.

—Set an age limit of 21 for candidates for county offices.

—Allow the State Highways Department, with approval of the governor, to lay out and take over new state highway routes.

—Allow the state to pay up to 80 per cent of the costs incurred by school districts for salaries of pre-employment training teachers.

—Increase the membership of the sanitary water board from seven to eight by including the secretary of commerce.

—Abolish the Bushy Run battlefield commission and transfer its powers to the state historical and museum commission.

—Authorize chiropractors to use, administer and dispense drugs having a local effect in the practice of minor foot surgery and foot treatment.

—Broaden the scope of research of the coal research board.

—Authorize the public welfare department to establish rules and regulations for requiring public assistance recipients to work. The measure also authorizes county assistance boards to administer community work and training programs.

—Set up a system of reciprocity under which Pennsylvania will recognize tax liabilities of other states, provided the other states recognize Pennsylvania tax liabilities.

—Allow railroads to choose anybody they like to be president or vice president. Present law restricts the selection to company officials or stockholders.

—Prohibit all administrative departments except the department of property and supplies from spending more than $12,000 on construction or alteration work.

—Extend retirement benefits in third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth class counties to employees with 15 or more years service. The old law limited the benefits to employees with 25 years or more service.

—Exempt contractors from restoring construction trailers as long as the trailers are not intended for highway movement. The bill sets up a special $10 permit for such trailers.

—Allow insurance companies to issue stock of the same par as corporations on policies involving health, injury or death.

—Set up a commissioner of professional and occupational affairs in the department of state.

—Permit third-class counties to increase their maximum real estate tax rate from 10 to 15 mills.

—Mandate that a public official convicted of misbehavior in office automatically forfeits his post. If the official finally is cleared, he would be reinstated automatically to his post.

—Appropriate some $6.1 million for sewer plant construction. The state is authorized to pay up to 2 per cent of the total cost.

—Provide $8 million to the state commerce department for housing redevelopment assistance. No municipality may receive more than redevelopment assistance. No municipality may receive more than 20 per cent of the funds.

House Committee Advances Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—An across-the-board slash in both individual and corporate income tax rates, the big objective of President Kennedy's tax revision plan, was approved Wednesday by the House Ways and Means Committee.

The cuts would apply to income beginning Jan. 1, 1964. Two-thirds of the individual reductions and a bit more than half the corporate reduction would come on 1964 income, the remainder on 1965 and subsequent income.

The Treasury says the individual cut would average 20 per cent in rates over-all, and 15½ per cent in the brackets embracing most Americans — those with taxable income of $2,000 to $90,000.

The corporate cut would reduce the present 52 per cent tax to 48 per cent by 1965.

The committee moreover adopted a new minimum standard deduction estimated to take 1.5 million low-income individuals and families entirely off the income tax rolls.

The deductions in individual income taxes, if Congress completes action on the legislation in time, will show up in bigger take-home pay after next Jan. 1, as withholding for income tax is scaled down. But the returns individuals file by April 15 will be based on the old rates because they apply to 1963 income.

Combined with other elements of the tax bill, not all of which have yet been approved by the committee, the new rates would mean savings on this order:

Personal Savings

A married man with two children, earning $4,000, could save $100, about 41 per cent of what he now pays; a similar taxpayer in the $10,000 class could save $202, or 16.9 per cent. Taxpayers at the very top could save substantially, since the top rate would be 70 per cent above $100,000 taxable income, in place of the present 91 per cent above $200,000.

The examples are based on Treasury averages. Any individual's savings would depend on a number of factors affected by the complex tax reduction and revision bill.

Wednesday's action moves the legislation a big step toward early House consideration. This is likely to come in the first part of September, although Democratic leaders say they would like to bring the bill up before Labor Day.

The Senate could balk Kennedy's hopes for final passage of the bill this year, especially if it gets sidetracked by a lengthy civil rights filibuster.

Republican plans to try to tie tax reduction to some sort of mandatory holddown of deficit spending came into the open with the 13-12 defeat in the committee of a motion by Rep. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn.

WOMAN SET AFIRE—Ambulance attendant gives Mrs. Katherine Gammon Harwell a transfusion as she is rushed to hospital in Walnut, Calif., in serious condition from burns suffered when she was coated with tar and feathers in a burning house. (AP Wirephoto)

Tar And Feathers

WALNUT, Calif. (AP)—Authorities blame racial intolerance for an attack Tuesday night on Mrs. Katherine Harwell that left the 28-year-old white mother of two badly burned and frightened.

She said three white men stripped her partly, poured hot tar and feathers on her and left her in a building they set afire.

Mrs. Harwell was taken to Los Angeles General Hospital, where her condition Wednesday was termed serious.

The victim told officers her attackers indicated they were punishing her for associating with a Negro odd-jobs man who was helping her clean up a vacant house.

One of them shouted, "We're going to teach you." Then they struck Mrs. Harwell on the head. She lost consciousness but came to later to find her hands tied, her dress stripped to her waist, and the men pouring hot tar and feathers over her.

Then, she said, they poured kerosene over her and about the house and set it afire.

Firemen said they found Mrs. Harwell screaming outside the burning house. Her body was badly charred.

Officers said the Negro odd-jobs man apparently escaped through a window.

Coed Heroine In Clothing Fire

READING, Pa. (AP)—An Albright College coed thrust a 58-year-old dormitory maid under a bathroom shower Wednesday after the woman's clothing caught fire as she worked with a pan of hot wax.

The coed, 21-year-old Joanne Leber, of Lewistown, then put out the flames with a chemical extinguisher and gave the maid, Mrs. Margaret Warr, of Reading, first aid. She was taken to a hospital suffering from arm, leg and body burns. Her condition was described as fair.

Scott Proposes Jobless Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Only firms in areas of substantial unemployment would be permitted to bid on some military contracts under legislation proposed Wednesday by Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa.

An amendment Scott cosponsored to the Defense Department appropriations bill would permit this if there is sufficient competition to insure a fair and reasonable price.

Museum To Get Priceless Art

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A collection of paintings so rare that art connoisseurs say no money value can be placed on it has been bequeathed to the Philadelphia Museum of Art.

The collection embraces the greater part of the world-famous treasure of paintings owned by the late Mrs. Carroll S. Tyson. Mrs. Tyson was the daughter of Charles A. Roebling, Trenton, N. J., industrialist, and a granddaughter of John A. Roebling, designer of the Brooklyn Bridge.

Mrs. Tyson, widow of a distinguished painter and collector, died on Aug. 2. Her will was probated Wednesday.

The legacy includes 19 paintings, most of them masterpieces of the French Impressionist school. Among the paintings are five canvases by Renoir, four by Cezanne, two by Monet, and works by Manet, Van Gogh, Poussin, Goya and Degas.

Penn State Must Borrow Money

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP)—Pennsylvania State University announced yesterday it would borrow the funds needed to carry on its expanded program in the absence of a legislative appropriation.

President Eric A. Walker said the university would proceed on the assumption that the expected $25 million which the 1963 legislature failed to appropriate would be forthcoming later.

The legislature adjourned Aug. 1 without taking any action on $72 million in so-called non-preferred appropriations for state-aided universities, colleges, hospitals, and special schools. Penn State's share was to be $25 million.

Observers of the legislative scene in Harrisburg figure the non-preferreds will be voted at the very latest when the legislature meets again in regular session next January.

Farmer's Widow Dies At 109

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Mrs. Anna Welch, a farmer's widow who enjoyed life to the last, died Tuesday, two days short of a month after her 109th birthday.

The former Anna Van Syckle was born in Pottsville, N. J. In 1878 she married George Welch, a neighboring farmer. He died in 1906. For 22 years she had been living with a son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Pittenger.

Tractor-Trailer Carrying Imported Tobacco Upsets

SNYDERSVILLE — A tractor-trailer rolled over on its side yesterday at 8:35 a.m. after making a left turn off Rt. 209 on to old Rt. 12 in Snyder'sville. There were no injuries.

State Trooper John Kinsella of the Stroudsburg barracks, investigator, identified the driver of the rig as Joseph Dombrowsky, 34, of 40 Mannion Ave., Carbon-dale. He was operating a vehicle owned by Fowler and Williams, a Scranton trucking firm. Dombrowsky said that he was traveling east on Rt. 209 and swung wide to make the turn and the next thing he knew the truck was on its side. He listed the cause of the accident as "the load of tobacco shifted as I turned."

Damage to the trailer is estimated at $6,000 and to the tractor $1,500 by State Police. No damage was estimated to the property of Sally Harps, the property on which the rig rested on until a crane unrighted it. Contents of the trailer was a load of imported tobacco. State Police will continue the investigation today.

Youth Hurt As Bicycle Rams Truck

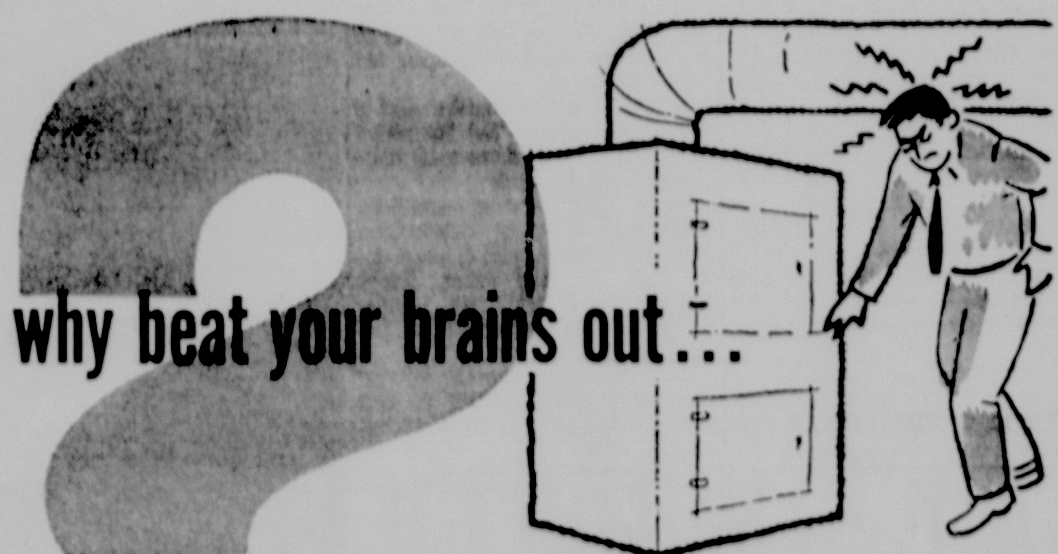

LEHIGHTON — A 15-year-old boy was slightly hurt at 10 a.m. yesterday when his bicycle ran into a Pennsylvania Power and Light Co. truck on Appellate Route 1961 in Lower Townships.

The youth, Richard Stroup, of Palmerton, RD 2, was treated at Palmerton Hospital for a cut above the nose and a bruised chin and released.

State Police here said the driver of the truck was Horace Evans of Bethlehem.

They said the boy rode his bicycle, without brakes, through a stop sign on Columbia Ave. in the township into the path of the truck.

Monroe Hospital Has Its Problems

By Reed Trollope
Daily Record Reporter
EAST STROUDSBURG — "We won't have any relief until there is more space," Harry J. Smith, superintendent of the General Hospital of Monroe County said yesterday in reply to the over-crowded conditions at the hospital.

"Throughout June and July, every day of both months, we operated at between 111 and 112 per cent of the hospital's capacity," Smith pointed out that the 225-member staff is strained by the conditions, and that several patients are forced to stay in the halls.

26 Per Cent Above
The American Hospital Assn. suggests a capacity of 85 per cent operation, according to Smith. "We're operating at 26 per cent over that recommended figure."

Smith said the summer is the most difficult period for the hospital because of the large numbers of accidents which occur, and the large number of injured brought in from the many area camps.

"We will just have to operate this way until the new building is finished," he added.

The hospital embarked on a building program to add a six-story 179-bed wing, which literally is not off the ground yet.

1961 Hopes
Smith said he hoped the building would be finished in 1961. The addition will include an all new pediatrics ward, laboratories, and enlarged X-ray facilities.

The total cost of the new addition will be $2,146,172, of which $374,744 must still be raised.

"We will just have to go in debt," Smith said.

"The people in the area gave us over a million dollars. It was wonderful, but it was unfortunately not enough," he said.

Work on the addition began early in June, with Paul Edinger the general contractor.

At the present time, the plumbing under the basement floor is almost finished. Also in this category are the elevator supports, and the foundations needed to bolster the steel beams.

"The steel work should start sometime next week," Smith stated.

Smith pointed out that the primary estimates of the cost were around $1,500,000, but that they later skyrocketed with the presentation of bids from area contractors. The first projected development of the addition called for a four-story structure, but Smith said that officials felt a need to "look into the future," so an additional two stories were added to the specifications.

"This will save us the trouble of tearing off the roof, and building on top of that in the years to come," he said. The two top floors will remain unfinished, only to be finished when the demand for more beds arises.

The two unfinished upper floors will provide room for 64 beds, when the future need arises, he emphasized.

Part of the total cost of the addition was allocated from the Hill-Burton Act funds, for the development of health facilities. The federal government allocated $500,000.

Chiropractors Go To Court

HARRISBURG (AP) — Traffic officials defended on legal grounds yesterday their refusal to accept medical certificates from chiropractors in determining the physical fitness of automobile drivers.

Pennsylvania law requires a medical examination as a condition of issuing a driver's license.

The Pennsylvania Licensed Chiropractors Association went to court seeking to compel recognition of the right of its members to make such examinations.

Tuesday's answer was filed by Deputy Atty. Gen. William M. Gross on behalf of Theodore B. Smith Jr., secretary of revenue; Harry H. Brainerd, commissioner of traffic safety, and H. Earl Pitzer, director of the Enforcement Bureau for the Traffic Safety Department.

Gross asked the court to dismiss the suit, contending the chiropractors have no cause of action. The association had charged the state was discriminating against chiropractors in refusing to accept their certificates as to the competency or incompetency of drivers in the examination program.

Gross declared that the traffic safety officials are acting within authority provided them by the Vehicle Code in excluding chiropractors' certificates.

Bible Reading

Confusion is spreading through the schools of Pennsylvania on the question of reading the Bible and reciting the Lord's Prayer in classrooms this fall.

The U. S. Supreme Court ruled June 17 that required Bible reading and prayer exercises in public schools are unconstitutional. But the court did not say clearly whether such exercises are unconstitutional if they are permissive rather than required.

On the same day, Charles H. Boehm, state superintendent of public instruction, said, "In Pennsylvania we interpret the decision to mean the elimination of religious services and rituals, but God and religion will remain in the schools."

It was a fence-sitting position. In effect, Boehm said, "Religious exercises are out, but religion will remain." Just how he did not say. He did give a general outline of a plan for a period of silent meditation.

"I will recommend that opening exercises in our schools begin with a period of silent meditation followed by inspirational music, art or literature.

"We are going to consult with scholars from the four major religions and other scholars on important matters relating to religion and the curriculum," Boehm said.

The beginning of the school year is near, but no more specific directive has been issued by Dr. Boehm or the State Department of Public Instruction.

Already this lack of an official Pennsylvania position is creating confusion among school directors and administrators.

Three school districts near Gettysburg in Adams County voted Monday to continue Bible reading and prayers but to allow any student who objects to go to other rooms during classroom exercises, thus making it permissive.

At the same time, the superintendent of Lancaster County schools advised all districts in his jurisdiction to discontinue Bible reading and prayers in classrooms.

Nevertheless, the Lancaster County Borough of Columbia ignored the county superintendent and said it would await instructions from the State Department of Public Instruction before making any decision on the problem.

Time grows short. An official statement from Harrisburg is needed.

Clergymen Protest Diem

In an unusual declaration of conscience, 15,000 clergymen of all faiths in America have protested to President Kennedy against our continued support of the regime of South Viet Nam's President Ngo Dinh Diem. (See story on Page 7).

They are particularly critical of his Catholic government's actions against the Buddhists who are 70 per cent of the population of the little nation at war with Communist guerrillas.

They sent the President a five-point protest against:

"1. Our country's military aid to those who deny religious freedom.

"2. Immoral spraying of parts of South Vietnam with crop-destroying chemicals.

"3. Herding of many South Vietnamese into concentration camps called 'strategic hamlets.'

"4. The loss of American lives and billions of dollars to bolster a regime universally regarded as unjust, undemocratic and unstable.

"5. The fiction that this is 'fighting for freedom.'"

The clergymen took pains to make it clear that they were not taking an anti-Catholic position. They quoted the leading Catholic Weekly, "The Commonweal," in its own editorial opposition to Diem:

"The use being made of Catholicism by Diem has made it doubly necessary for Catholic voices to be raised against religious practices of the regime."

It is as easy to criticize the Diem regime and its anti-Buddhist activities as it is hard to believe that all Buddhist protests are "communist-inspired" as Diem claims.

But it is more difficult for President Kennedy and the State Department to summon up a magic solution to the crisis. It is difficult, but not impossible. The State Department has argued that "there is no alternative to Diem." The clergymen and common sense argue that there must be.

Henry Cabot Lodge is on his way as new ambassador to South Viet Nam. There will be no sudden American switch until he gets his feet on the ground. But we hope the taxpayers of America are not asked to continue supporting Diem.

Military Gobbledygook

Washington—Contrary to popular legend, the most flagrant gobbledygook offenders in the Federal Government are not the supposedly insipid diplomats of the State Department, but the supposedly outspoken generals and admirals of the Defense Department.

The brass out-definitizes, out-finalizes, and out-escalates the striped pants by 100 to 1. In the language of the Pentagon, this amounts to proliferation of substantive proportions.

I didn't realize just how incomprehensible Government gobbledygook had become until I dropped into the White House the other day. I found Press Secretary Pierre Salinger and his staff almost going crazy in attempt to decode gobbledygook communications from the Executive departments.

Mr. Salinger himself was sitting at his desk, looking with glazed eyes at a communique that had just been delivered to him by hot messenger.

"For obvious reasons you'll have to leave out the name of the country involved," he told me, "and you'll have to leave the specific reference. But listen to this:

"The underlying idea we had sought to carry out was that of isolating the conflict in-by terminating external intervention. This led to the scheme of reciprocal-disengagement."

When I had gotten my own eyes unglazed, I said to Mr. Salinger: "I have heard of this 'disengagement,' but I never could figure out what it means. How do you translate it?"

"To me 'disengagement' means walking away from a problem," replied Mr. Salinger. "For example, I try to disengage myself from people like you as much as possible."

I frowned with gratitude over the compliment, and asked Mr. Salinger what other gobbledygookisms he had just received. Cautiously refraining from designating the ending agency so as not to embarrass Arthur Sylvester, the Voice of the Pentagon, he recited:

"The ultimate impact of our flexible policy . . . some policies are no panacea themselves . . . they are not an ouant of the Big Picture . . ."

This drew a female yelp from across the office. The yelp was Mr. Salinger's invaluable assistant, Christine Camp.

"The Big Picture!" The Big Picture!" cried Miss Camp. "Somebody's always gobbledygooking us about the 'Big Picture!'"

"What is the Big Picture?" I inquired.

"It isn't Cleopatra," replied Miss Camp.

At this, Mrs. Sue Mortenson Vogelsinger, another Salinger ladies aide, stuck her blonde head in the door. I said sternly:

"Mrs. Vogelsinger, I am encountering evasion at the hands of Miss Camp. Tell me, frankly, and no equivocating, just what is the Big Picture?"

"You can always tell it," said Mrs. Vogelsinger. "The Big Picture is bigger than the small picture."

Mr. Salinger read from another pile of new communications:

"We are trying to defuse some of the aspects of the conflict by dumping it down through an exercise in preventative diplomacy . . . this adds a new factor to the decision-making process . . . it should be staffed out—"

"Staffed out!" "Staffed out!" howled Miss Camp. "We're always being 'staffed out!'"

"How, in heaven's name, do you get staffed out?" I asked.

"You take a matter up with your staff and they check it out," explained Mr. Salinger. "That's staffed out. But you can't be adequately staffed out unless you input all the factors."

By this time I was hardened. I merely said: "I suppose you do a lot of inputting?"

"We input everything," boasted Mr. Salinger. "We input all the facets . . ."

"Not the kind of facets in a kitchen sink," interpolated Mrs. Vogelsinger. "We input all the facets and get staffed out. Some communications, of course, are placed in the circular file."

"What?" I demanded. "Is the circular file?"

"The wastebasket," replied Mr. Salinger. "Many communications, after being staffed out, are not inputted anywhere but the circular file."

The Pennsylvania Story

Investigations Went To Pot

By Mason Denton

Harrisburg—Special legislative investigating committees certainly went to pot during the recently ended 1963 legislative session.

Check over the record of this seven-month gathering of Pennsylvania's legislative braves and it will be found that not a single major legislative probe brewed in the coffee pots of either the House or Senate.

This is a somewhat far cry from some of the so-called "hot" probes ordered by the Legislature during sessions of the past decade—or more specifically perhaps, since Pennsylvania Democrats moved into the gubernatorial trophy room on Capitol Hill back in 1953.

In a sense there is rhyme and reason to this pattern—depending of course on how you look at it.

It should be remembered however that there is a decided difference between a probe (investigation) and a "study" as such, as may be ordered by either the House of Representatives or the Senate, or a joint concurrent resolution of both houses.

Probes, or investigations, run the gamut.

They're the ones times over loaded with political overtones one way or the other—but not, notwithstanding, this belaboring political appendage, oftentimes are productive of highly important and critical results.

And there are those that produce but hot air.

For example, the highly-bugled legislative investigation of the Philadelphia vote fraud incident initiated by legislative Republicans during the 1960 legislative session, with appropriate flailing of war drums and assorted and sundry pots and pans, illustrates the point.

When the clamor and commotion died down, the smoke of battle admittedly was tremendous—but productive of absolutely nothing.

One point to be made is that such investigations on the part of the Legislature that had been cleared, authorized and duly conducted, developed as a result of a specific situation—a "situation" that did not exist during the 1963 legislative gathering.

Looking back, it should be remembered that when donkey riders of the Keystone State (much to their astonishment and some confusion) took over control of the gubernatorial cloakroom atop Capitol Hill on the second floor front in 1953, that was about all they did pick up!

During their two four-year tenures they never gained control of the legislative branch.

Thus they never did have the opportunity to initiate legislative investigations or probes in their pre-1953 Republican brethren.

On the other hand, the then anti-administration Republican blocs in control of the Legislature had within their grasp the means and the vote control necessary to launch a few inquiries and probes of their own of the then Democratic executive branch—which they did on several occasions.

Insofar as the 1963 session was concerned, Republicans continued their legislative control—but this time the story was a little different.

The front office is in Republican hands after an eight-year blackout but legislative Republicans were not likely, any more than preceding Democrats, to launch any sort of probe of "their own" people.

However what has been surprising to many was the complete lack of any move to investigate either of the two Democratic administrations they replaced! That something along this line would develop had been almost a foregone conclusion.

Republicans on the other hand have just gotten their feet inside the door and by the time another year rolls around and another legislative session is under way, the picture may change drastically.

Although even-year sessions such as the upcoming 1964 gathering are limited to consideration of fiscal matters, the one exception is legislative investigations or probes which may be launched in any session.

There is an old saying that if you play both ends against the middle chances are an explosion may occur. But this is not, the case of Van D. Yetter, Monroe County's representative to the General Assembly in Harrisburg.

Yetter, a Democrat and a resident of Marshalls Creek, has blended experience with common sense to put across good legislation not only for citizens of the entire commonwealth but for Monroe County in particular.

His strong measure on tax exemption and his legislation on moonlighting hunters are bills that have pushed him high among the solons at the state capitol.

Yetter who is in the first phase of his fourth term has gained the support and well wishes of more than just a few Republicans during his duty under Governors George Leader, David Lawrence (Democrats) and now William Scranton (Republican).

Recently we had the opportunity to be in a huddle with some Democratic and Republican legislators. It was an off-the-cuff session. But it was evident that Yetter has the confidence of both sides of the fence.

It takes a good politician to gain the admiration of his opponents as well as his party. And it takes a better politician to ride high on the hog, so to speak, when the opposition is in power.

In Yetter's case the GOP holds in Harrisburg. However, the man who threw off the Scranton landslide in Monroe last time out and defeated Republican Gerald F. Snyder, is considered one of the ablest men down in the House.

If you notice, Yetter's bills are co-sponsored just as much by Republican legislators as Democratic representatives. This bit of evidence indicates Yetter is trying to serve all of the people no matter what their party affiliation.

People around the area are starting to liken Yetter to the late U.S. Rep. Francis Walter. "Tad was a man you could confront anytime and get an answer to a question one way or the other. It didn't matter whether you were a Democrat or Republican."

Apparently Yetter has made the same impression on the folks in Monroe. Anyway it is official that he is regarded highly in both camps in Harrisburg.

"Most difficult case we've ever had. We've given her fifteen psychoanalysis tests and she always comes out NORMAL."

The Allen-Scott Report

A Hot Potato

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15—Secretary Dean Rusk is uneasily pondering an internal State Department hot potato that could cause him more discomfort than the world spotlighted nuclear test ban treaty.

Pending before Rusk is a State Department reorganization plan, one of whose major objectives is axing Miss Frances Knight, controversial directors of the Passport Office.

Authors of this explosive scheme are Abraham Chayes, legal adviser of the Department, and Abba Schwartz, head of the bureau of Security and Consular Affairs.

Under their reorganization proposal, a number of important jobs would be abolished, among them Miss Knight's. Opponents are angrily charging that a primary Chayes-Schwartz purpose is to load these places with hand-picked selections of their own.

A definite factor in this backstage situation is the Kennedy Administration's antipathy to Miss Knight.

Her stubborn insistence on her own hiring policy and scorn for Democratic job-seekers has greatly annoyed New Frontiersmen bent on rewarding deserving adherents. The White House has long wanted to get rid of her, but hasn't dared do so directly, due to her potent backers in Congress.

As a consequence, she and Schwartz have been covertly tangling for months. Much of their rowing has been through partisans at closed-door meetings of congressional committees.

Mainstay of Miss Knight's strength is the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, headed by Senator James Eastland, D-Miss. Schwartz' chief support has been the House Committee on Un-American Activities, under the chairmanship of the late Representative Francis Walter, D-Pa.

Senator Eastland summoned Secretary Rusk for questioning on the Chayes-Schwartz reorganization plan, but he asked for a postponement owing to his trip to Russia and the hearings on the test ban treaty.

Rusk got the reprieve on the understanding nothing would be done on the hatchet-wielding reorganization scheme.

So for the time being it's in abeyance. What happens later remains to be seen.

Meanwhile, there is no let-up in the undercover Schwartz-Knight feud.

When Miss Knight refused a visa to Willie Gallacher, 81-year-old British Communist and former member of Parliament, to fly to Chicago to visit an ailing sister, she was overruled by Secretary Rusk—on the recommendation of Schwartz.

Gallacher was allowed to come to the U.S. on the condition he kept out of politics.

Missing Millions—Congressional authorities have been told that "at least two" of the seven $1 million government bonds that mysteriously vanished from the vault of the San Francisco Federal Reserve Bank last August, are reputedly in Red Chinese hands.

Alleged source of this report is a "banker in Hong Kong."

The information is vague as to the identity of the banker and other details, particularly how the securities came into the Communists' possess. But the story is explicit that they have some of these missing bonds.

No clue has ever been uncovered regarding the $7.5 million in U.S. securities that disappeared from the bank. A special three-member panel, appointed by Representative Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the House Banking Committee, conducted an investigation and split on the findings.

The two Democrats expressed belief the bonds were stolen. The Republican sided with the bank's claim that they had been "accidentally burned."

Patman is considering sending a special agent to Switzerland to check on reports that some of the bonds are hidden in a "numbered" bank account. In the past, the Swiss have refused to divulge any information about these accounts.

Iron Curtain Flash—The Senate delegation that accompanied Secretary Rusk to Moscow for the signing of the nuclear test ban had a brief but vivid view of the great contrasts in life in Russia. The group was lavishly entertained. The menu of the official luncheon for them in the Kremlin included fresh caviar, cold white salmon, wood grouse, asparagus consommé, grilled sturgeon, saddle of lamb, fruits, nuts, champagne and other liquors. Later while shopping, the senators and their wives saw another side of the Moscow scene.

Eggs selling at 11 cents apiece, a small chicken $3.50, a plain nylon blouse $11, a synthetic skirt $33, shoes made in Czechoslovakia $20 to $55, wool cloth at $20 to $42 a meter (39 inches) . . . Burma is buying 1,000 tractors from Russia and another 1,000 from Czechoslovakia. As part of this deal, the Soviets and Czechoslovakia will train a number of Burmese in tractor operation and maintenance . . . Sweden has sold a complete lathe works to Tunis for $7 million. The Swedes will install the plant and train Tunisians in its operations . . . President Gamal Nasser is calling off his subsidized trip to Argentina on the ground he is too busy with domestic and "other problems."

About Town

From the Milwaukee Journal:

Not only was the California motor vehicle department ungallant in revoking the driver's license of the woman of 33 who said she was 25, but it was unrealistic. If the department is going to call in the license of every woman in California who has fished about her years, it won't have the manpower for any other tasks. The men who enforce the traffic laws should gracefully recognize that the age a woman admits to on her driver's license is no more reliable than the weight she claims—or the color of her hair.

Dear Abby

He's A Lost Sheep!

DEAR ABBY: It's the same old story. Wife puts husband through four years of school, plus two years of dentistry, and now she has been outgrown. However, my story is more than this. I've taught school, born two children and am expecting another. My husband took up with a "beat" crowd and is now trying to "discover who he is—and what his purpose in life is." He was raised rigidly in the church, but he's forsaken it to experiment in a "free" way of life, which includes drinking and other women. We've been separated three months. (I took the children and went to his parents, 200 miles away—my parents are dead and I have no "family" of my own.) My husband now writes that he has taken up painting and intends to desert the career for which he was trained, because he can't handle the responsibility of a family until he finds out who he is and what his purpose in life is. I know I haven't been a perfect wife, but I was faithful, and put him through school. What am I to do?

DEAR TROUBLED: Your husband is either sick or a bad apple. His father should go after him and tell him WHO he is (a husband and father)—and explain that his "purpose" in life is to take care of his family. If your husband is sick, he should have treatment. If he's a bad apple, he should be cut off the family tree.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a person who goes into someone else's home and says, "My it's COLD in here!" Or, "My, it's HOT in here!" I was taught that the temperature in one's home should not be criticized because it suits the people who are living there. If a guest comes into a home, shouldn't she forget about her own comfort and keep quiet if the temperature is not to her liking? I'd appreciate seeing this in the paper. Thank you.

INSULTED: Personally, I would rather forego my own "comfort" and please my guests. I see nothing wrong with a guest commenting on the temperature of a room. It makes more sense than shivering in silence, or attempting to fan oneself with a limp handkerchief.

DEAR ABBY: Is it true that in order to meet the qualifications of a true gentleman, a male, when out tripping the light fantastic, must dance with each lady at his table? That is, if he knows his one, two, three, kick?

DEAR R. F. A.: Today a man is considered a "hero" if he dances his wife once around the floor. If he goes in for the "one, two, three, kick" routine, (to "qualify" as a true gentleman) he won't give the lady much pleasure—nor will he get much.

Tell your troubles to Abby. For a personal unpublished reply, please send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Speaking Of Your Health:

Kidney Machine For Uremia

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

The prime function of the kidney is to act as a clearing house for the removal of chemical waste products. No computer mechanism and no outer space vehicle has within a tiny area the sheer, wondrous ingenuity that lies within the kidney organ.

The little kidney is bombarded by disease and by injury and by the very poisons it tries to eliminate. Sometimes the burden becomes too great for this remarkable organ.

When the kidney ceases to function at its maximum, the waste products, like nitrogen, are dammed back into the blood stream. This upsets its delicate chemical balance and produces uremia. Uremia is a severe and dangerous condition.

Progressing without control, uremia was almost always fatal only a decade ago. But now the advances are spectacular in the treatment of such kidney disease by the use of transplants and artificial kidney machines.

Machine Takes Over

Kidney machines take over the function of the sick kidney by a process called dialysis. It eliminates waste products and purifies the blood until the kidney itself is returned to health.

Man-made machines, engineered by the coordinated efforts of every science, contribute to extending the healthy lives of man.

SHE LOST 24 LBS.

Almost universally, the doctor advises his patient against an excessive weight gain during pregnancy, for the capricious appetites of pregnant women do not stop at pickles and dandelion salad.

Months after month, pregnant women are carefully checked, weighed and their blood pressure taken because of the importance of limiting excess weight. A proper weight level is important for the baby's health as well as the mother's.

Inspiring Story

The story of one woman's battle with obesity should inspire every pregnant woman to find the inner strength necessary to keep her weight under control.

Perhaps never in the annals of medicine has there been a report of a case even remotely resembling this one. Dr. I. Fink of the University of Tennessee Medical School has followed the history of a woman who lost 240 pounds prior to and during her pregnancy.

How did she do it?

During forty-two weeks of concentrated and rigid dieting before pregnancy, she lost 145 pounds. Her weight at the time of pregnancy was 305 pounds. An additional 84 pounds were shed during the nine months of pregnancy.

Great Reward

This remarkable woman deserved the great reward for which she worked so hard. Surprise of surprises, the baby, healthy and normal female, weighed in at exactly 7½ pounds at birth.

The delighted mother, far from relaxing her strict program of weight control, continued to lose more weight. At the end of a year, she had taken off another 21 pounds. Coincidentally, this was exactly the baby's weight at one year.

In addition to the gratification of delivering a normal healthy baby of a considerably more streamlined mother, Dr. Fink's staff has gained important and interesting medical knowledge from this unusual case.

While Dr. Coleman cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Coleman in care of this newspaper.

PM Board Shuns Action On Marek

SWIFTWATER — Pocono Mountain Joint School Committee last night declined to take any action to remove Vincent Marek, Jr., of Tannersville from the Pocono Township School Board.

Marek, former first sergeant of Co. A, 109th Infantry, Pennsylvania National Guard, has pleaded nolo contendere (no contest) to charges involving irregularities in pay checks of the National Guard unit and is awaiting sentence.

The action was taken after Mrs. Joanne Pearson presented a letter at the meeting requesting information on how Marek could be removed from the board.

She said that the reply of Atty. Alex Bensinger, solicitor for the jointure, to a previous letter of hers was confusing. Reading from

Two Cars Necessity, Survey Says

STROUDSBURG — Two cars in the family are a necessity was the consensus of opinion in a survey of the Stroudsburg area by the Daily Record yesterday.

The answers revealed the ownership of two recent models in most families. However, a debate raged over the cost of the cars. Families in the area seem to be split down the middle when it comes to the question of the expense of owning two cars.

Mrs. J. Todd McLane of Pocono Pines said, "It is an expensive proposition," even though she only uses their late model American car for short trips.

Jack Harrison, owner of the Paradise Stream Resort Motel in Mt. Pocono said, "I think my foreign car has given me much better service. American cars have very poor quality."

He pointed out that his Swedish-made car has gone over 100,000 miles with no major repairs, and "it is excellent as far as mileage goes." Harrison also has an American car.

Of the families in the area that have two cars, about half feel the extra car is not very expensive. Approximately 75 per cent of the two-car owners own post-1960 models. Twenty-five per cent have one new car in the family.

The woman in the family usually uses the second car most for shopping, and short local trips. In a few families, the second car is used exclusively by the teen-ager in the family.

"As soon as they're 16, they start asking for a car," pointed out Robert Henry, salesman for a local auto dealer. He said there are often "family confusions" about who will use the only car, so a second one is bought. "We sell at least one every day," he said in reference to second car sales.

Henry has a new car in the family, as well as a 1967 American-made car. He said, "I very seldom use the other car," so the car for the wife's use only is very widespread.

Like Any Other Luxury He added that, "It's what others consider expensive," when operating two cars.

Orville McGraw, another car salesman of Stroudsburg said, "No, I think not, because it is more expensive not to have two. Someone wants it when the other fell—has it. When you can afford it, it's just like any other luxury."

A recent survey by the Runzheimer Co. of Chicago showed the average cost of owning a late model eight cylinder car is $806 per year. This compares with $453 for a foreign compact, so it is not hard to see why many prefer the lower upkeep costs of a foreign car.

American compact cars cost—on the average—$968 per year, so this may be the answer to those who, like Henry, "Would not have a foreign car."

State To Open Rt. 209 Job Bids Sept. 13

STROUDSBURG — The State Highway Dept. will open bids Sept. 13 for repair, reconstruction, resurfacing and widening of parts of Rt. 209 between Miniskink Hills and Marshalls Creek.

Harold B. Kresge, county superintendent of highways, said he has not received specific plans but said it involves 3.02 miles of the old Rt. 402 from the point where the macadam exit from Interstate Rt. 80 ends north towards the Marshalls Creek intersection with Business Rt. 209.

He said he is anxious to have the State Highway Dept. improve and widen the narrow cement bridge at the Marshalls Creek intersection, and also wants to straighten dangerous curves in the road east of Rt. 209 at Willow Dell.

Specifications Bid specifications for the 3.02-mile project on Rt. 209 in Smithfield Township include:

Construction of one reinforced concrete slab bridge; extension of one steel, I-beam bridge; widening existing pavement with crushed aggregate base; and resurfacing the new base and existing pavement with a bituminous surface.

The new road will vary in width to 32 feet. Since it was renumbered from Rt. 402 to Rt. 209 and made a major artery of traffic north from Stroudsburg, the cement road has disintegrated in many spots.

Foot Slips Motorist Into Crash

WIND GAP—Two persons were injured in a one-car crash at the intersection of Rt. 15 and the Plainfield Church road near Wind Gap at 5:30 p. m. yesterday.

Miss Evelyn M. Bortz, 19, of Nazareth Rd 3, told Plainfield Township police chief Donald R. Rohn she slowed down for a stop sign at the intersection, when her foot slipped off the brake and hit the accelerator.

The car careened across the intersection and struck a telephone pole. Miss Bortz, and a passenger, Bruce Siegfried, 10, of Nazareth Rd 3, were taken to Eastern Hospital by the Wind Gap Fire Co. Ambulance. They were treated at the scene by Dr. R. H. Dreher of Wind Gap.

Miss Bortz was listed in satisfactory condition with possible head injuries last night at the hospital. Siegfried was treated and released.

Another passenger in the car, Randy Siegfried, 6, of Nazareth Rd 3, was not injured.

Plainfield Township police are continuing the investigation.

569 Placed In Jobs Locally

STROUDSBURG — Officials of the Pennsylvania State Employment Office announced yesterday that during July the Stroudsburg local office placed 569 persons in local employment.

This is the second consecutive month that a record for the local office was made in the placement field for any comparable period. During June the local office placed 490 persons.

Most of the placements occurred in the resort industry. A total of 731 persons was referred to local employers during July, most of them being out of area residents, principally seeking work in the resort industry.

John P. Dougherty, manager of the Stroudsburg office, said that the record achievement was due principally to expanding job opportunities in the service industries and an increased desire of applicants to accept service work. During July, the local office received 897 job openings.

Dougherty said that there is a shortage at present of cooks, bakers, experienced waiters and waitresses of over 21 years of age and the local office is using 20 other state employment offices to help meet the needs.

At least 150 openings are anticipated for inexperienced persons willing to work as waiters and waitresses, kitchen helpers and groundsman for the Labor Day weekend. Persons interested in either permanent or weekend work may apply at the local office located at 408 Main St. or contact the Mount Pocono office at the Casino Building, Monday through Friday between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Two Maps Paintings Show Up In Suburban Syracuse Gallery

STROUDSBURG — Two water color paintings by Edward Howard Maps, Stroudsburg artist - sculptor wanted for the murders of his wife and daughter, have appeared in a suburban Syracuse, N.Y., art gallery. The Federal Bureau of Investigation said yesterday it has sent circulars to all art galleries in the country in an effort to get a lead on Maps.

The FBI refused to comment further on the case, a normal procedure of the department while a case is still under investigation. Maps has been on the FBI's 10 most wanted list since June 1962, on charges of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution.

Kiwanians Hear Story Of Attalos

STROUDSBURG — Manuel Tavarez, architect and architect, discussed the rebuilding and restoration of the Stoa of Attalos in Athens, Greece, at yesterday's luncheon meeting of Stroudsburg Kiwanis Club at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Tavarez said the building, a two-story colonaded structure erected in the year 150 B. C., was destroyed in 269 A. D. by Herulians who attacked and burned the city.

Under the sponsorship of the American School of Classical Studies, Tavarez was named as supervisor of the project to rebuild the ancient structure to its original design.

The restoration work started in September, 1963, and was completed four years later. Actual pieces of the original structure, more than 2,000 years old, which were left standing or which were found in the ruins were used.

200 Employed More than 200 Greeks were employed on the project, 110 of them skilled marble and stone cutters. Eric Schuchard was program chairman and it was announced that Walter McClelland and William Walter will attend the divisional conference at the Lehigh Valley Club, Allentown, on Aug. 22.

Span-Ram Truck Seen Overloaded

WHITE HAVEN — A truck which plunged through the asphalt-covered wood flooring of the bridge which links White Haven and East Side may have been overloaded, a State Highways Dept. spokesman said yesterday.

Chester S. Wagner, acting district engineer, said the truck appeared to him to gross about 25 tons, 10 tons more than the posted gross limit of 15 tons.

He maintained that the excess weight which tore off the flooring bolts permitting the truck to fall into the Lehigh River.

Ordered Stone Removed

Police Chief Ervin Carter of White Haven said that he stopped the truck earlier, west of the 420-foot bridge, and ordered some of the stone removed.

The truck, driven by Robert L. Cox, 38, of Weatherly, was hauling stone from the General Crushed Stone Co., west of White Haven, to the construction site of Interstate Route 81 at Blakeslee Corners.

Cox, rescued from the truck cab about two hours after the accident, sustained a broken right leg and multiple cuts and bruises. He is a patient at Hazleton State General Hospital.

In Harrisburg, the Highways Dept. said bridge engineers from both Allentown and Harrisburg have been sent to the scene and repair of the bridge has been given a "high priority."

A spokesman for the department said the bridge was repaired after the 1955 flood which ravaged the Poconos.

Wagner said the bridge was checked two months ago and was found "perfectly satisfactory."

Nation's Steel Stockpiles Down

NEW YORK (AP) — The Iron Age reported that steel stockpiles in user hands are diminishing at a steady rate, indicating a fairly early return to normal.

Meantime, August new orders have disappointed steel producers as the industry slumps further into the midsummer doldrums, the metalworking weekly said.

The magazine predicted an inventory level of about 68 days of supply by the end of September—midway between the low point of last March and the June peak following the steel labor settlement.

It called this close to normal for the present rate of industrial activity.

Mutual Banks' Deposits Gain

NEW YORK (AP)—The national Association of Mutual Savings Banks said regular deposits gained $100 million in July to a total of $43 billion at month's end.

The gain is above average, but below the $158 million of July a year ago when many investors were taking money from the ailing stock market and putting it in savings deposits, the group said.

E-Burg Water Plant Grant Under Viewing

EAST STROUDSBURG — A grant of $343,944 for construction of a water filtration plant for the borough of East Stroudsburg is still under consideration in Washington, according to Gerald Poston, Public Information director for the Housing and Home Finance Administration.

The grant was filed Nov. 19, 1962, by the East Stroudsburg borough council. Under legislation signed by President Kennedy, communities in distressed areas may apply for federal assistance.

in construction projects for public works, provided plans are ready within 120 days of the grant's approval.

C. R. Bensinger Jr., borough solicitor, pointed out that water filtration plants fall into this category, since council a few years ago authorized bringing the water system up to date.

Three Wounded By Mad Gunman

PITTSBURGH (AP) — At least three persons, including a policeman, were wounded yesterday when a man fired shotgun blasts from a house on Pittsburgh's North Side as policemen ringed the home.

Officers said the man was firing periodically from the windows. Patrolmen, firemen and police officials converged on the scene and called for tear gas and metal shields.

Fire equipment also was rushed to the scene as police prepared to use tear gas to flush the man from the home.

Seneca Indian Area Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interior Department indicated yesterday it likes the idea of a recreation area and Williamsburg-type restoration on the Seneca Indian Reservation in Western New York.

But it withheld a decision on whether the taxpayers should build the $29-million project.

Swedish Sailors Rest In Peace

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Twelve sailors are resting in peace at the navy's old cemetery in Stockholm — 335 years after they died.

The sailors, all killed when King Gustaf II Adolf's flagship Vasa capsized during her maiden voyage in 1628, were buried at the old shipyard at Skeppsholmen during the weekend.

The sailors were found when the Vasa was recovered from the muddy bottom of the Stockholm harbor.

Prince Wilhelm of Sweden wrote the epitaph on the stone over the grave.

The first lines read: "Short was the cruise, but long for those who sailed into eternity; they offered their lives for their country."

Clergymen Ask End Of U.S. Aid To Diem

NEW YORK — A protest by 15,000 clergymen of various faiths from every state in the nation was forwarded to President Kennedy today, urging an end to United States financial and armed support of the Diem regime in South Vietnam.

The 15,000 clergymen protested in individual letters the religious persecution of South Vietnam's Buddhists—over 70 per cent of the population—by the Diem regime. The clergymen also denounced on moral grounds "the spraying of parts of South Vietnam with crop-destroying chemicals and the herding of many of its people into concentration camps called strategic hamlets." The action was made known by the Rev. Donald S. Harrington, secretary of the Ministers Vietnam Committee and minister of the Community Church of New York.

The protest, which Dr. Harrington said was unprecedented in the number of ministers from different faiths and denominations, grew out of an appeal by 12 of America's foremost clergymen.

These included the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, and the Right Rev. James A. Pike, Episcopal Bishop of California.

The appeal, which was widely circulated, cited the suicide of a Buddhist priest, the Rev. Quang Duc, who burned himself alive to call world attention to the religious persecution of Buddhists by South Vietnam's rulers, Demonstrations have continued with mounting intensity since Quang Duc's death.

"We decry the loss of American lives and billions of dollars to bolster a regime universally regarded as unjust, undemocratic, and unstable," Dr. Harrington said. "It is a fiction to say that this is fighting for freedom."

Referring to the 15,000 letters received, Dr. Harrington said: "This overwhelming expression of the conviction of dedicated and informed community leaders makes it more evident than ever that United States aid to the corrupt and tyrannical Diem regime of South Vietnam will and must come to an end."

Although the ruling regime in South Vietnam happens to be Roman Catholic, Harrington stressed that the protest was not anti-Catholic, but embraced Catholics.

He cited a leading Catholic weekly, The Commonweal, which protested in an editorial on July 12 that "the...being made of Catholicism by Diem has made it doubly necessary for Catholic voices to be raised against the religious policies of the regime."

Bobbies Arrest Spear Throwers

LONDON (AP) — Two men from Zanibar were brandishing long wooden staves at each other in busy Whitechapel in London's East End. So the bobbies arrested them for threatening the peace. Old Street Police Court rang to their indignant protests yesterday. "We were celebrating independence," said one. "We were not fighting," said the other. The magistrate accepted their explanation that the mock fight was really a national dance. "Go away and don't be silly," he said, dismissing the case.

Traffic Up, Cash Dips At Gap Bridge

MORRISVILLE, N.J. — A decrease in revenue due to sale of cheaper commutation tickets accompanied by a sharp rise in the amount of traffic handled was announced yesterday in a report by the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission.

A revenue decline of 8.5 per cent was registered on the Delaware Water Gap Toll Bridge alone between the months of July, 1962 and July, 1963.

The commission controls five toll bridges: the Trenton-Morrisville, Easton-Phillipsburg, Portland-Columbia, Milford - Montague and Delaware Water Gap toll bridges.

The decrease in revenue for these five was 2.79 per cent from June to July while traffic was 6.99 per cent heavier for the same period.

Reduction
The commission attributes this development to the reduction in the commutation toll rate to two and one-half cents at all bridges. A book of 40 tickets costs $1.

On the Delaware Water Gap bridge alone the sale of commutation books has gone up from the 1962 monthly average of 192 to 2,630 in July. A smaller increase was reported for the Milford - Montague bridge.

Delaware Water Gap bridge has been used by an average of more than 6,000 cars each day since the beginning of the year, the commission report states, and revenue has averaged over $2,000 per day.

The number of motorists buying commutation books has risen to over $30,000 over last year, an increase of 31 per cent.

Expected Increase

"Taking into consideration the fact that those books sold during July contained 40 tickets per book while those sold during the previous year contained only 20 tickets per book, it is apparent that we should expect a great increase in commutation traffic," the report says.

A smaller increase was also noted for the state-owned free bridges, including those between the Easton and Phillipsburg, Belvidere and Riverton and Portland and Columbia.

Service Changed

EAST STROUDSBURG—Rabbi Bernhard Pressler announced yesterday that Friday night service will be changed this week only. The reason for the change is a special farewell service for the Saul Schulman family.

Services are scheduled for 9 p. m. in Temple Israel in East Stroudsburg. Following the sermon a "Oneg Shabbos" (reception) will be held in the social rooms of the temple.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Gerald Brodsky, Mrs. Max Berman, Mrs. Edwin Krawitz and Mrs. Henry Reader.

Saturday services will be at 7:30 a. m.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Angel E. Ochoa of Tucson asked Justice of the Peace Clark H. Johnson for a little more time to raise the $35 needed to pay a traffic fine.

Southern Wayne Principal To Speak At Rotary Meet

NEWFOUNDLAND — Clayton Northup, principal of Southern Wayne Joint School, and a member of the committee on student exchange, will be the guest speaker at the Aug. 19 meeting of the Rotary Club at Green's Restaurant.

Northup will present a program on Switzerland, which will be of special interest to the club, since their first exchange student, Camille Foetisch, will arrive from that country on Aug. 24 for a year in Newfoundland.

The speaker will be the guest of Jack Tobey, Wayne County Director of Special Education, who is program chairman for August. Tobey also will have charge of the program on August 26.

The Rotarians this week heard Jack Koslowski, camp director for Goose Pond Boy Scout Reservation speak on scouting.

Guest Rotarians were Hans Helms, Mt. Joy; Bill Mohr, Allentown; H. B. Stromberg, Clark Summit; Charles Snyder, Lancaster; Jack Durkin, Abington.

Nonwhite Jobless Problems

NEW YORK — The unemployment situation among nonwhites—more than 90 per cent are Negroes—has worsened in recent years in comparison to that of white workers, a spokesman for the Middle Atlantic Regional Office of the U.S. Department of Labor said yesterday.

John Dougherty, manager of Pennsylvania Employment Security Office, Stroudsburg, said, "This state cannot offer any figures on the question. Pennsylvania has a Fair Employment Practice Act. This eliminates any reference to a person's race, color or creed."

"We do ask the individual for his age but this is only used where a legal question is asked. Such as request for a bartender when the individual must be 21 years old to be employed or for a driver of a truck covered by ICC regulations. Here the person must be more than 25 years of age," he concluded.

Herbert Blenstock, regional director for the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics, has estimated that about one half of the total difference between the white and nonwhite overall unemployment rate in 1962 can be explained by the continued concentration of nonwhites in relatively unskilled occupations.

However, he continues, even within the same major occupational group, jobless rates of nonwhites substantially exceed those of white workers.

Unemployment Periods
Blenstock noted that nonwhites experienced both more frequent spells and longer periods of unemployment during 1956-1962 period than did white workers.

His report showed that between 1956 and 1962 and increased number and proportion of nonwhite workers enter the higher skilled and better paying white-collar occupations. Nevertheless, in 1962 only 17 per cent of all employed nonwhites were in white-collar occupations, compared with 47 per cent of white workers.

After the sizable relative gains in nonwhite family income during World War II and early postwar period, there has been no further narrowing of the income differential between white and non-white groups despite rising incomes for both.

During the 1950's, workers at the upper social-economic scale—professional, technical and managerial workers—where nonwhites are still under-represented, showed much larger relative income gains than workers among lesser skilled occupations where non-whites are still disproportionately concentrated.

Since the mid-1950's the non-white differential in education attainment, as measured by years of school completed, has also remained essentially unchanged. Both groups have shown an increase of one full year in median school years completed.

Penney's To Expand Programs

NEW YORK — The nation's second largest merchandising firm, J.C. Penney Co., will soon embark on a broad expansion project, according to William C. Batten, president.

Batten spoke at a recent meeting of the New York Society of Security Analysts, and spelled out the 61-year-old company's plans for an enlarged credit program and expanded hard goods merchandising departments. A national catalogue organization was also proposed at the meeting.

He discussed the methods of the 1,700 store chain in adopting procedures to move merchandise into its stores more quickly and economically.

Batten also pointed out that Penney expects a "A sales increase of about 5 per cent, based on widespread predictions of a continued healthy economy" for the last half of the fiscal year ending Jan. 31, 1964.

He said that earnings for this period should "show a better relationship to last year than will be the case in the first half just ended."

"Another major area of change is the development of a much broader range of hard lines and home furnishings," Batten stated.

The company, founded in 1913 by James Cash Penney, has traditionally been known as a soft goods merchandiser. However, hard goods now represent less than 5 per cent of Penney's total sales, Batten pointed out.

He said that the first catalogue in the company's history began distribution last week. "We look upon catalogue sales as a natural extension of our present way of doing business," he said with reference to the new 1,252 page catalogue.

Batten announced the company will open a new 152,000 square foot store in King of Prussia, Pa., the company's largest suburban outlet.

He added that a new stock control system for non-fashion items that now controls $350,000,000 worth of merchandise, may jump to $600,000,000.

He said a substantial change in the size of the stores is forthcoming, and that the addition will amount to 1,300,000 square feet in new and remodeled stores.

Be Prepared For Rust Attack On Hollyhock

By George Abraham
HOLLYHOCK TROUBLE—This old fashioned item is frowned upon by some gardeners but loved by most of us. You'd think that such an oldstander would be free from all problems, but it isn't. The worst trouble is hollyhock rust, the villain which causes the leaves to turn brown or yellow and drop off. This rust is due to a fungus which produces spores in reddish blobs on the underside of the leaves. Yellowed areas show up on the upper surface, causing the entire leaf to drop or wither. Is there a good control for this? We've mentioned sulfur as one of the best materials, but the secret is to get it on before the disease attacks. Remove and burn infected leaves now, and dust or spray the plants with either sulfur, zinc or ferbam. Next spring just as new growth has started, dust with either of these materials, making sure you cover both the under surface and the top surface. Give your hollyhock patch a good house cleaning this fall, burning all rubbish and debris nearby. Water Dowsers — A reader writes: "I spent $200 to have a water dower find water for our new home. So far he's found nothing. Do you think there's anything to this business of using twigs to locate water in the ground?" Whenever we discuss this age-old technique used in searching for water we usually stir up a hornet's nest. This is one thing I'm skeptical about because I've seen it fail in so many instances. There are some 25,000 amateur and professional dowsers in America who would take exception to me, but I wouldn't expect them to change their opinions. Dowsing consists usually of taking a forked stick from a fruit bearing tree (why this tree?) and holding the prongs in each hand. As you search for water, the stick will move downward as you cross an underground spring or well. Dowsing has been called

"water witching," water divining, doodle-bugging and other names not printable. Some dowsers work on a "no water, no pay" basis, but others don't. If you spent $200 for a dower's services, and found no water, you have as much right to be as angry as a person who spent $200 for a carpenter and received no results. I'd like to see what percentage of our readers believe in water witching. Please write and give me your reactions. Zucchini Recipes — There's no reason why summer squash should not be high on your list for tastiest vegetables. Plain squash tastes like mush but if you "beef" it up with onion, garlic, tomatoes, etc., you'll have a dish fit for a king. My readers have sent me various recipes for cooking this fine vegetable, and I've put these into a bulletin. If you'd like a copy, send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope; and ask for How To Cook Summer Squash. If you follow the tips in this bulletin, I'll guarantee your family will be eating a lot more squash than they ever did! Dried Arrangements—I've been asked for instructions on "skeletonizing" plant materials so they can be used for indoor arrangements. This phase of making dried arrangements is fascinating, and it's simple. To skeletonize leaves, first you soak and boil them in a soda solution for 1/2 hour, using a teaspoon of baking soda to a quart of water. Allow leaves to cool in the solution and then you can spread them out on a piece of newspaper. Scrape off the fleshy part of the leaf on both sides. Then mix 2 tablespoons of bleaching solution and allow the leaves to stay in the bleach for 1 hour. This makes them white. Next, place between sheets of absorbent paper. To tint: Spray with aerosol paints or dip in cake coloring, school inks or tinting materials. Don't forget about using fine mason's sand, borax or corn meal for preserving flowers. These probably do not work as well as silica gel, but they do give you a chance to experiment with various flowers. Silica gel does a better job preserving the natural colors in flowers, but sometimes local florists or druggists do not handle it. Winter Injury — It may seem odd to talk about winter injury in mid-summer, but now's a time when much of it is apparent on shade trees. Usually if you see a side of a young tree that's dried up and dead for no apparent cause, the trouble can be traced to winter injury. This isn't always the cause, but whatever is the reason, get out the pruning saw and remove the affected part. There's no chance of the dead wood budding out again next year. You may have a lopsided tree temporarily, but new limbs will eventually fill the gap. One reason why the forsythia and flowering quince fail to bloom is winter cold and there isn't much you can do to toughen up these for winter. Act Extended Four Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Interstate Commerce Committee reported favorably yesterday a bill to give congressional consent to extension of the Interstate Compact to Conserve Oil and Gas for four years from Sept. 1, this year. The stated purpose of the compact, created in 1935 and extended from time to time since then, is to conserve oil and gas by prevention of physical waste. Some 3 states are members. A similar measure has been approved by the Senate Interior Committee and is pending in the Senate. Question Box

QUESTION OF THE WEEK — F. R. of Nazareth: "Our Madonnas lilies grew 4 feet tall. Just as they were about to bud, they turned yellow and none of the flowers came out. Last week we dug some up and the bulbs were huge, 3 inches across. My husband wants to discard them, but I'm wondering if they can't be saved." Your bulbs have botrytis blight, but there's no reason why you can't save them. Remove and burn infected leaves, stems or old tops. Dig up the bulbs any time now and treat them. We dust ours with a Zineb first, before planting. Or if you prefer to use a liquid, mix up 1 tablespoon of 50 per cent zineb to a gallon of water, and soak the bulbs in this for about 5 minutes. Any new growth which comes from these bulbs in late summer should be covered thoroughly with a weekly application, using either Zineb, Ferbam, Captan or sulfur. Be sure to cover the lower and upper leaf surfaces for effective control. When spring rolls around it's a good idea to drench the plants with one of the above fungicides. Botrytis blight is not easy to control, but with persistence you can completely eradicate it with the above materials. H. N. of Mountainhome: "I'm enclosing a leaf from a young maple tree. Please tell us what those ugly growths are on the leaves. It appears on 75 per cent of the foliage and I fear it will kill the trees." Your maples have the maple gall mite, too small to be seen by the naked eye. These cause various types of swellings ("galls") due to the feeding punctures of the mite. The mites live and feed inside the galls and leaf tissue. In early August they desert the leaves and migrate to the bark to spend the winter. There are various types such as Maple spindle gall and the Crinoid mite which causes felt-like patches on the upper surface of leaves. Are these galls serious? No, they're rarely serious enough to bother about. If you're uneasy and want to lick them, spray trees with lime-sulfur, 1 pint of a gallon of water, in early April, before leaf buds start to open. G. H. of Cresco: "I have border of lavender along our patio and it makes a fine hedge. We'd like to know how to care for it, and how to start new plants." Start cuttings in fall or spring. We just stick them in moist sand and they root easily. Take 3 inch shoots off the branches and strip the bottom clean, before inserting. You can also divide the plants in spring, or you can start them from seed sown indoors in spring. Lavender isn't winter hardy and will usually die back partly. In spring, when new growth is coming up from the base, take a pair of hedge shears and shear plant back to live growth. You might want to protect your plants with an evergreen-bough mulch. Even so, these plants may die back partly. Hang small bunches of tips in the garage so they will dry quickly. Strip them from the stems and put in a sack bag.

HARRISBURG — Monroe County's 420 residents on relief rolls during June received a total of $29,509 in public assistance grants, the State Department of Public Welfare reported.

A breakdown of this relief expenditure shows that $11,456 was paid out to 130 persons receiving old age assistance, $11,220 went to 108 receiving aid to dependent children assistance, $3,453 to 52 receiving blind relief, $2,058 to 38 receiving aid to disabled assistance, and $1,322 to 32 persons in the county receiving general assistance.

Other Expenditures
Other expenditures in the Monroe County relief program included $3,242 for administration, $178 for aid to disabled public nursing home care, and $1,918 for other medical care.

The department said there were 40 applications for public assistance received from county residents during the month, made up of 21 applications for aid to dependent children assistance, 11 for general assistance, five for old age assistance, two for blind pensions, and one application for aid to disabled assistance.

Udall Asks Research On Pesticides

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall called on Congress Monday to lift the present $2,565,000 limit on appropriations for pesticide research.

Mr. Udall cited a new report on the complex effects of pesticides on wildlife.

The report, prepared by his department, disclosed that among samples of adult and young ducks and eggs collected more than 500 miles north of any known insecticide application, the eggs and immature ducks contained more pesticide residues than any adult samples.

The samples were taken north of Great Slave Lake in Canada. Residues of DDT and related compounds were said to have been found.

Scientists assume that the adult ducks were exposed to pesticides somewhere on their migration to wintering areas. They passed the residues along to their progeny in "a yet unexplained manner that apparently concentrates the chemical residues," the department said.

The report said "contamination of wild forms is widespread."

The Entomological Society of America has reported that 75 per cent of the United States has never been treated by any insecticides and that only 5 per cent was treated each year.

The federal report took issue with the society's statement that the more heavily treated agricultural lands and urban areas were "less important to wildlife."

"As a matter of fact," the report stated, "these habitats are very important and the highest population densities of many species are attained on them."

The report said "25 of 26 specimens of bald eagle analyzed by the service contain DDT; and 2-300 specimens of birds and mammals in 22 states and three provinces of Canada, 75 per cent contained residues when analyzed."

"Even in remote areas of the world animals have residues," it continued. "Water fowl and their eggs in the Far North and resident fish in streams in Alaska were collected on areas far from any known pesticide application, and they contained residues of insecticides as did the surrounding vegetation."

"Also, marine fishes from different oceans of the world have been found to contain DDT."

Gas Investigation Is Ordered

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A councilmanic investigation was ordered yesterday into a chlorine gas leak last Friday that sickened about 400 persons.

Council President Paul Dorton, charged Wonder Chemical Co., owner of the chlorine tank car from which the gas escaped, had violated fire code and license and inspections regulations.

Because of the vacation period the council investigation will not get underway until the week of Sept. 5.

Commissioner Enters Office

HARRISBURG (AP)—Joab Mahood of Troy, Bradford County, was sworn in yesterday as an interim appointee on the State Milk Control Commission.

He was named by Gov. Scranton to succeed John A. Smith of Camp Hill. Mahood's appointment is good until the end of the 1964 legislature, unless he is confirmed to a full term by the state senate. The post pays $13,000 a year.

Four University Officials Say Butts' Character 'Bad'

ATLANTA (AP) — Four University of Georgia officials, including the president, testified Wednesday in federal court that Wally Butts' character was bad. They were called in the trial of Butts' $10 million libel suit resulting from football fix charges.

Dr. O. C. Aderhold, university president, was asked about the character of Butts, former football coach and athletic director at Georgia.

"I would say it's bad," Dr. Aderhold replied.

Dr. Aderhold and three university associates took the stand as witnesses for Curtis Publishing Co. in its defense against the libel suit which resulted from a Saturday Evening Post article. Aderhold said that business activities by Butts had interfered with his duties as athletic director.

Also testifying that Butts had a bad character were Harold Hickman, William T. Bradshaw, and R. H. Driftmeyer, members of the athletic board.

Attorneys for Butts rested their case Wednesday after eliciting testimony aimed at the key witness in the football fix charges.

White-haired William H. Schroeder Jr., after placing 15 witnesses—including Butts—on the stand, announced the conclusion of direct evidence midway in the eighth day of the trial.

Butts, 58, is seeking $10 million from Curtis.

Schroeder rested his case after testimony from John C. Carmichael, an Atlanta businessman, who reiterated that notes offered in evidence were not the same shown to him last Sept. 13 by George P. Burnett, key witness for Curtis.

In his testimony, Burnett said he made hurried notes after accidentally intercepting a telephone call from Butts to Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant of Alabama.

Rigged Game
The Saturday Evening Post, published by Curtis, charged in its March 23 issue that Butts and Bryant rigged the Sept. 22 Georgia-Alabama football game.

Carmichael said he saw Burnett's notes Sept. 13. His testimony was sharply attacked by Welborn B. Cody, chief counsel for Curtis.

Cody questioned Carmichael about testimony in pre-trial interviews in which he said he did not read the notes.

"I am testifying now that I did read them," he replied.

SportScope

by KEN O'BRIEN
Daily Record Sports Editor

HEAVY, dark clouds hung overhead while a crisp wind blew through the Poconos yesterday morning. The air was void of humidity. It was almost autumnish and reminded one upon crawling from bed of football. A good day to talk about the sport. We picked on Jack Gregory, Great White Chief of the Warriors on the reservation of East Stroudsburg State College.

The clouds hang heavy every day for the ESSC grid mentor. But through it all, there are a few rays of sunshine—the brightest one, of course, being Toby Barkman, stellar halfback and a top candidate for Little All-America honors. Barkman is one of two returning men on the starting team of last year which recorded an unbeaten 8-0 record during regular season play before bowing to Slippery Rock, 13-6, for the Pennsylvania State Colleges Football conference championship.

The other returnee from last year's fine squad is Jan Beliveau, a hulking fullback who crashes through the line like a Sherman tank.

But both Barkman and Beliveau will be confronted with a Herculean task this year. The front line—a big factor in the success of ESSC teams the past few years—has vanished from the scene. And a strong line is essential for the success of the running backs.

Gone from last year's team are starters Joe Heverin and Tom Washburn, ends; Bruce Thomas and Bill Slezosky, tackles; Horace Cole and Fred Patton, guards, and Barry Yoder, center. In the backfield, quarterback Bill Lewis and halfback Gary Willhite also have left the ESSC fold.

Thus, it all boils down to this: Gregory needs another halfback to supplement Barkman; a quarterback with the keen football mind of Lewis, and an entire new line. Aside from that, Jack's problems are few—and well they should be.

While Barkman and Beliveau represent the only two returning starters on the Warrior eleven of last year, Gregory also has 12 returning lettermen—and here again come a couple more rays of sun. Joe Bahatka, a 6-1, 205-pound linebacker, and Mel Fager, a six-foot, 190-pound guard are among the top prospects of this group. They'll have no trouble making the starting array this season.

Bahatka and Fager are good. In fact, Joe already has been selected co-captain along with Barkman for this year's squad. Fager proved himself last season in his appearances on the field.

But that foursome is not much of a nucleus for Gregory to start with for this new season.

"It all depends this year," says Jack, "on what kind of defensive unit we can assemble."

Gregory sums up the trouble spots this way: "We must find strength up front . . . we need tackles and we need depth at the ends. . . . It will be a real difficult job to replace Lewis at quarterback. . . . We need another fine halfback to go along with Barkman and we need help in the kicking department."

His strong points: "Barkman and Beliveau are the key men. If Barkman gets any kind of help, he could be a first-team Little All-American. . . . The football tradition that has been built up here in the last four years should be a tremendous help—none of these boys have ever played on a losing club. . . . The addition of Sterling Brown, former ESSC grid captain who received honorable mention for Little All-American honors, and Lewis, who have been added to the coaching staff as graduate students will help a great deal."

Incidentally, Jack also says the two toughest opponents on the ESSC schedule this year will be Montclair State and West Chester. The Warriors open against the Indians of Montclair at Clifton Stadium Sept. 14 at 8 p. m. West Chester is the next opponent.

SIDELIGHTS—Mrs. Gerald O'Neill, owner of the Penn-Stroud Hotel, hosted the P-S team of the Stroudsburg Little League Tuesday evening after the hotel nine had won the loop championship with an 11-4 triumph over Ronson. Penn-Stroud won the first of the best-of-three games Monday with a 6-3 win. Marty Phillips homered for the winners in Tuesday's finale.

Carl Weichel, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Weichel of Stroudsburg, turned in a card of 77 Tuesday to finish fourth in a field of 92 participants in the junior golf tourney at Mahoning Valley.

Brian Sternberg Brims With Hope

SEATTLE (AP)—Stretched out on a canvas frame, Brian Sternberg, slightly but perceptibly, rocked his right arm, elbow to wrist.

"I can move that old arm any time I want to," Brian said. "The other one, too. And when you touch it, I can feel where your hand is."

It's not much. But to the splendidly built young man who once soared to world supremacy on a pole, it is a beginning brimming with hope.

Six weeks of immobility have not deprived the 20-year-old University of Washington vaulter of the mental verve that distinguished him among the world's outstanding athletes.

By medical standards, the outlook is grim for recovering use of the arms and legs that propelled Brian to a since-broken world's record of 16 feet 8 inches.

"I'll never believe it," Brian said. "I'm planning on vaulting next year. But I'm going to have to hurry."

"If I'm just making it up and around by, say, January, it's going to be hard to get back in shape for the Olympics."

"I don't mean I think I'm a cinch to make the Olympic team. But it's a great thing just to get into the trials, and I want to do that."

RECORD SETTER

PEITE Liske, Penn State's 1962 quarterback, set single-season school records for touchdowns, passes, yards passing, and total offense. He will return to quarterback the Nittany Lions in 1963.

A SOLEMN FAREWELL—Stan Musial of the Cards gropes for words as he announces his retirement from baseball at St. Louis. The Man, who has played 22 seasons with the Cardinals, will play his last game on Sept. 29.

Darrell Royal: Dull Team O.K.

AUSTIN, TEX. (AP)—Apple-cheeked Darrell Royal, whose theory of football appears to place victory over entertainment, has become the winningest coach in Southwest Conference history.

The feat required only six years and with what he has coming up this season he's likely to go even further ahead.

Royal, in his tenure at the University of Texas, has compiled a record of 48 victories, 14 losses and 3 ties. That's an average of eight victories per season, which any coach would like to have.

He has won the Southwest Conference championship once, tied for it twice, finished second once, in a tie for second once and fourth the other time.

5 Bowl Games
Royal has had his teams in five bowl games, winning one, losing three and tying one.

His average for the six years is .760. This is six percentage points better than Francis Schmidt's record at Arkansas and Texas Christian from 1922 to 1933.

Royal, who quarterbacked Oklahoma in the late 40's coached at Mississippi State and Washington before coming to Texas in 1957. Longhorn gridiron fortunes had hit rock bottom. The team had won only one game out of 10 the season before. It has lost to Oklahoma 45-0 and to Texas Christian 46-0.

The first thing Royal did was issue a statement saying: "You can't convince me these Texas boys don't have pride. They can play winning football if they are given confidence in themselves."

He proceeded to do just that by teaching what he termed "jaw to jaw" football. It was hard, nosed football under another name.

His first team won 6, lost 3, tied 1 and played in the Sugar Bowl. It wasn't a good team as far as ability went. But it played the kind of football that came from building its own self-respect; it tried its damndest.

In 1958 his team had a 7-3 record, in 1959 it was 9-1, in 1960 it was 7-3, in 1961 it was 9-1 and in 1962 it was 9-0-1. The 1962 team was his first unbeaten outfit although he became accustomed to playing on them at Oklahoma. In 1949, his last season with the Sooners, the team was undefeated and united.

Rather Dull

Royal says his 1963 team should be favored for the Southwest Conference title. But it's likely to be rather dull on the field much like his 1962 outfit that brought criticism from the fans over its plodding, colorless ways.

It won't have a lot of speed and it will throw just enough passes to keep the defense honest. It averaged 15 passes per game last fall.

Royal isn't worried about criticism of his style of play. The fans tear down the gates to get into the stadium when his team plays. The old grads only look at the scoreboard.

Senior L.L. Series Commences Today

BETHLEHEM — Five Little League Baseball Senior Division champions from the United States and Mexico have arrived in Bethlehem for the 1963 Series at Taylor Stadium on the Lehigh University Campus starting today.

Winners, in addition to Monterey, Mexico, in the geographical divisions of the United States are: East — Pompton Lakes, N.J.; North — Gary, Ind.; West — Huntington Park, Calif. The South champion will be either Northeast, Md., or Randeman, N. C.

Hotel Bethlehem is headquarters and the information center for the five-game series to begin at 5:30 p.m. Other games are slated for 2 and 5:30 p.m. Friday with a consolation contest at 10 a.m. Saturday and the series final at 2 p.m. on Saturday.

Powerful Hitting

Statistics on three United States winners indicate powerful hitting arrays as evidenced by the 79 runs scored in seven victories by California; 59 runs in eight wins for Indiana, and 44 runs in seven wins by the Jersey entry. Low-scoring pitchers' battles have been the trend in many post-season contests.

The 14-player teams will be hosted by Bethlehem Area Little Leagues. Since the entries will not have their regular followers in some cases because of travel distance, the Bethlehem tourney leagues to serve as "cheering sections" for the visitors.

This marks the first year that series play has been moved to a community other than Williamsport, the national headquarters. This is the third year of Senior Division play for boys of ages 13-15. It is designed for communities

Jersey Lass Scores Upset In Swim Meet

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP)—Ginny Duemmel, a 16-year-old high school junior from the Summit, N. J. YMCA, opened the National AAU Senior Women's Outdoor Swimming Championships Wednesday by scoring a stunning upset of the country's top two distance swimmers to take the 1,500-meter freestyle event.

Swimming th event for only the second time in her competitive career, Miss Duemmel covered the almost-a-mile distance in 18:57.9 to nip Sharon Finerman of Los Angeles by a hand length and Carolyn House of the Los Angeles A.C. by a full 25 meters.

Miss House is the world record-holder for this event with a time of 18:41.0.

which have no active competition for boys upon graduation from regular Little League.

Last year's champion was West Hempstead, Long Island.

There are 200 teams in Senior Division, providing playing for 30,000 boys.

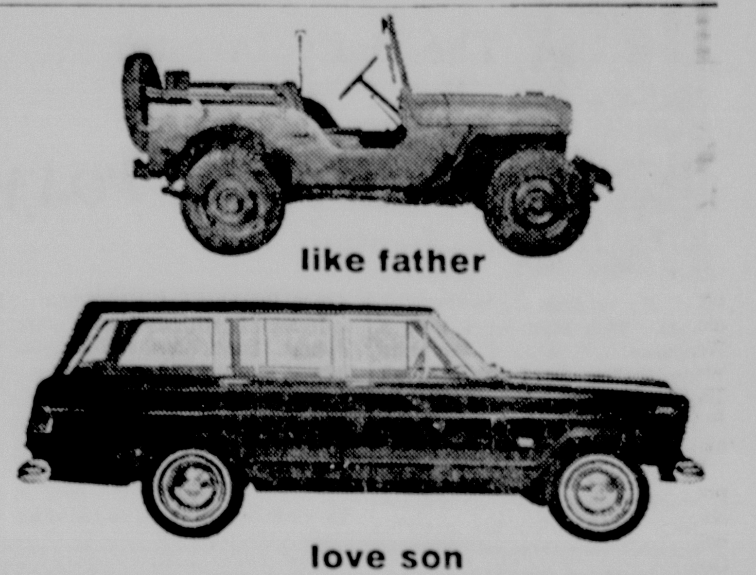

A number of baseball personalities will participate in opening day ceremonies and also the post-series trophy presentation program.

These include Eddie Sawyer, former manager of the Philadelphia Phillies during the Whiz Kid catcher for the St. Louis Cardinals and Detroit Tigers, and Joe Bedenik, long-time Penn State baseball coach.

Bethlehem Mayor H. Gordon Payrow, Jr. will throw out the first ball for the opening contest, while newly elected Congressman Fred B. Rooney of Bethlehem will make the traditional toss for the Saturday title game.

The Mexican team entry will be accompanied by Cesar Faj, who managed the Little League "Cinderella Teams" to championships in 1957-58. He is considered "Mr. Little League" of Mexico and is the team director and interpreter.

The Bethlehem Mexican-Azteca Club will be hosts to the Monterey team and its followers. The Mexican and American flags will fly from dual poles during the series in which the national anthems of both countries will be played.

For every man who ever fell in love with a Jeep—a new kind of family station wagon has been born. The 'Jeep' Wagoneer. It's the first station wagon ever built to offer the comfort, silence, speed and smoothness of a passenger car—plus the traction and safety of 4-wheel drive.

It's sheer pleasure to drive. Simple too. One lever puts you in 4-wheel drive. So at a second's notice you can shift into greater safety...from wheel-spinning in mud or snow...from skids on slick surfaces...from getting stuck or going out of control on the highway or off!

The Wagoneer really makes a demonstration worthwhile. It'll be your most exciting 30 minutes behind the wheel in 1963. Also in 2-wheel drive models. See your 'Jeep' dealer.

Real Proxy Fights

By William A. Doyle

Q. This summer I took a course in finance at the state university. But I just could not go along with some of my professor's ideas, even though the basic course was informative.

He said that stockholders should throw away the proxies they receive, because a company's management always has control of the company and can't be ousted. And he said lots of other things, all to the effect that corporate management is bad. Can this be true?

A. It's always possible that the professor was giving his personal opinions on things about which he had no personal knowledge.

But let's be kind and offer the suggestion that the professor in check or not) to interest the class and get some hot discussions going. That's a time-tested teaching technique.

Please understand that I'm not pointing this typewriter in defense of the managements of all companies. Some of them are indefensible. Worse than bad, they're awful.

But it's more realistic to say that the managements of most companies rate from excellent to acceptable. This shows in the records of the companies—with profits being the final measurement.

It's quite true that a proxy (through which a stockholder may vote on the election of members of a company's board of directors and on other corporate affairs) may seem absolutely worthless. That's because big stockholders usually have enough votes to control management. However, we have seen some dandy knock-down-and-drag-out proxy fights in recent years.

And when management is really doing a bad job, the big stockholders may make changes at the top. Not always. But often. As has been pointed out here in the past, there's always room for improvement.

Q. I have been told that no one should invest in stocks, etc., unless he has an income of at least $10,000 a year. Do you agree?

A. No. Some people with incomes of less than that are able to invest and do successfully. Others with incomes much higher aren't in positions to invest because they don't have spare money left over after meeting their living expenses.

This column has always stressed that no family should invest until it has a firm financial foundation of insurance and cash savings.

But there's no real formula for figuring out just how much each family should have in insurance and savings before thinking about investments. That's something each family must decide.

Don't forget that many people, because they invested when they had relatively low incomes, now have higher incomes as a result of those investments.

Q. A man I know says that big corporations should pay out all their earnings to their stockholders as dividends. What should I say to him?

A. You might try telling him that he doesn't know what he is talking about and has absolutely no understanding of corporate money policies or problems.

A company seldom, if ever, pays out all its profits as dividends. Some of the earnings are retained and used for such corporate purposes as building new plants, buying equipment, etc. In short, the retained profits are put to work for the company and its stockholders.

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a diversion every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to test your logic. Count the letters in your first name. If the number is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
